Calling For Expressions of Interest (EOIs) For A:

Postgraduate Diploma in Volcanology

The School of Science and Technology (SoST) - Department of Science is calling for expressions of interest (EOIs) from prospective students with an undergraduate Science qualification to study towards a Postgraduate Diploma in Volcanology.

Volcanoes are extremely destructive and threaten millions around the globe. The recent undersea volcanic eruption near our neighboring island of Tonga has brought the dangers associated with this phenomenon closer to home. It reminds us of the destructive power of volcanoes which threatens both humans and the environment through associated tsunamis, flooding of coastal areas, power outages, communication breakdown and water, air and sound pollution affecting us all.

The Department of Science at the University of Fiji intends to offer a Postgraduate Diploma in Volcanology on this complex and significant geological problem. We invite EOIs from prospective students who wish to undertake this important and topical programme.
