

Novella to Motivate Youths

Ms. Archana Reddy, a UniFiji academic (SOBE) and author, hopes that her new novella will inspire young people to pursue their dreams.

The book "Chasing Dreams: A Boon or Bane?" was launched during the International Women's Day at Samabula Campus.

The novella is a short work of literature that tells the story of Mia, an island girl, from her clumsy beginnings to her eventual transformation, which was only possible through confidence and motivation.

"The book's goal is to teach and motivate people that they can achieve everything they want if they change their thinking and are determined to conquer all obstacles in their way. Mia's life adventures and whether her aspirations and decisions were a major boon or a bane could only be discovered by reading the book," she said.

Ms. Reddy stated that the book is dedicated to all individuals who have left home for a reason, whether it is for education or work, and how they struggle alone behind their families.

The book was accepted and published on Amazon (KDP), and it will be available in a week on Barnes and Noble Press, from which it will be distributed to its various subsidiaries.
